Association Management Software Buyer's Checklist

Introduction

This Buyer's Checklist for association professionals is designed to help you make an "apples to apples" comparison of association management software (AMS) systems so you can make the right purchasing decision for your association.

Vendor Selection

There are many AMS vendors to choose from. However, each solution on the market is unique. Here's how to begin your search.

- Ask around. Get referrals and input from other associations like yours. Ask what system they use, what they like, and what features are lacking.
- Find out how long the company has been in the business of providing membership management solutions to associations.
- Verify how many times the product has been updated in the last 12 months (monthly is ideal).
- Research whether the vendor is in good standing with the Better Business Bureau.
- Ask how many membership organizations the vendor currently serves (free trial users shouldn't be counted as customers).
- Ask about contract terms.
- Narrow down your selection to 3-4 vendors to further research. A free product demo should be easy to schedule, give an overview of the product functionality, and provide opportunities to ask questions.

Ease of Use

An AMS system will only provide value if its features are easy to use and your information is easy to access.

- Ask for a product demonstration to help you determine if the system is easy to use and meets your needs.
- Find out what kind of user training is available and the cost (e.g., webinars, on-site training options, videos, searchable FAQs, forums, etc.).
- Ask how frequently system updates are released, how they are communicated to users, and how they are implemented (i.e., automatically or by the users).

Onboarding & Integration

While some associations are large enough to employ an IT team to handle the transition process (aka onboarding), most are not.

- Find out if the vendor follows an onboarding process and what it includes (and doesn't include).
- Verify that someone is assigned to support you through the entire transition process.
- Ask how long it typically takes before an association of your size can be up and running with the new system.

Training & Support

You'll want good training and support options when you're learning the new system and on an ongoing basis.

- Verify if there is a limit to or additional cost for support.
- Find out if customer support is provided by in-house account representatives or outsourced to a third-party call center.
- Ask about typical customer support response times, hours of availability, and communication options (i.e., online chat, phone, email, online FAQs, etc.).

Access to Data

It's critical for association staff to have their AMS system accessible wherever or whenever they're working.

- Determine if the system is cloud-based, allowing for a single shared view of member information and making updates on-the-go.
- Find out if access levels can be set that restrict staff access to specific information.
- Ask how many user licenses are included.
- Verify who owns the data, how you can access it, and how it is secured.
- Make sure your solution comes with a mobile app for your staff.

Costs

A written cost proposal is a must.

- Get a solid understanding of all costs, including:
  - What is included or not included
  - Terms of the contract
  - Initial setup cost
  - Training and support
  - Per-user charge
  - Per-member surcharge
  - Per-transaction charge (% or $)
  - Per-event-registration charge
  - Per-email-sent charge
  - Upgrades
  - Updates
  - Bandwidth
  - Storage space
